

A shining stone in clear water

A Caterpillar who stopped to take a drink of water on her way home home?

Home is everywhere said the drifting water

Home is the brief unveiling of purity we find in each other

Like the groaning of whales booming in the night

You are a calve, brimming with electric silence.