

PRESS RELEASE

03.07.2016 - 11.09.2016

Vleeshal is pleased to present the group exhibition, 'Survival Guides for Ballroom Dancers, Renovators, Softball Moms, Working Parents and Troubled Folk in General', including works by Moyra Davey, Martin Kohout, Katja Novitskova, Laure Prouvost and Jay Tan.

Imbued with a diaristic impulse that is cathartic in character, the process-based, sincere, and often amusing works in this exhibition explore the slippery terrain between truth and fiction, private and public, and intimacy and perversion. Structured according to their own distinct – sometimes absurdist – internal logic, the works could be seen as strategies for survival in our current environment where intimacy and human relations are dispersed across multiple networked platforms; a characteristic of our screen-based culture. This reality brings about a need for the creation of new private rituals, secret semiotic systems, and personalised forms of communication.

This exhibition is curated by Roos Gortzak, in collaboration with Julia Mullié and Sophie Oxenbridge.

Funded by Mondriaan Fund and City of Middelburg.
