Mr. Stigl. Panos Charalambous, Eva Stefani, and Zafos Xagoraris present an ensemble of references that dance together through three installations set inside and outside of the Greek Pavilion. Sounds, moving image, and architectural elements dub the pavilion building with new layers of meaning: translucent and open, the past and the future coexist in a condition of active present, where the ardour of the instantaneous allows for interpretations of the past to configure in an associative and instinctive manner. Fragments of narrations and lingering images aggregate in the pavilion to create an alternative history that questions the hegemony of the official records and the institutions that form it.
