Cleopatra's Berlin wishes you a joyful 2012 and will be happy to welcome you at its first exhibition this year, opening on Friday.

German artist Christine Würmell (*1972) presents the solo exhibition Von Höfen und Gärten (Of Courtyards and Gardens) comprising a wall text and two serial works amongst others. They take into account the urban context and role of the exhibition's venue as an engaging space in flux within the ongoing economic and socio-political restructuring processes in Berlin. Visual and linguistic phenomena of these processes such as the language of real estate advertisement or the intervening imagery of graffiti, are both, the matter and material Würmell uses to raise questions about different ideas of living.

Christine Würmell lives and works in Berlin and is currently represented in the group exhibition Farbe im Fluss (Color in Flux) at the Neues Museum Weserburg, Bremen. In 2009 she had the solo exhibition Dissonanzproduktion at the project space of the Temporäre Kunsthalle Berlin that was managed by Gregor Hose who proposed her to Cleopatra's and organized her exhibition there.
