

---

DUNES

CONTACT

BORU@DUNES.FYI

WEB

DUNES.FYI

ADDRESS

251 CONGRESS ST. PORTLAND, ME 04101

LETTUCE MAKES YOU TIRED

Jamie Chan

SEPT 30– NOV 30, 2022

Opening reception Friday September 30, 5–7pm

Dunes is pleased to announce Lettuce Makes You Tired, a solo show by Jamie Chan, a Chinese American artist based in Brooklyn, NY. This exhibition weaves together two lives of the artist: that of full time office employee, and that of the full time artist. More often than not the day jobs, which keep one's practice alive are shrouded from the viewer, a holdover perpetuating the myth of artistic practice. In Chan's case, the openness of this balance informs the work.

"With little time to paint, I had to become more practical in how paint was applied and decisions were made, breaking down steps and layers in advance and knowing what was achievable in a 2 hour window. Most of the 2 hours would be spent looking, then I would strategize a few marks in order to spiritually move on with my life. I would wake up and brush my teeth near the painting before work. Later, digesting my dinner and listening to music, I would look and paint. Naturally, this shift of day to night energy would become fused into the paintings, making them into accumulations of small transitions and about this version of time"

With paintings and drawings dating from 2018–2022, this exhibition deals with subjects that are intensely personal, but also widely relatable to anyone familiar with the trappings of aspirational lifestyle advertising; Fitness, Tech, Cars... "Getting Ahead". These themes often dovetail with nods to classical figuration and process in painting.

The paintings Body Scan (2021), Offering (2022), and Death of the Small Self (2020) depict figures in athletic movement, referencing zoom circuit training within the artist's circle of friends. We also see references to ads for home gym tech products. Conjuring the need for regular exercise and physical health, the works question the assumed possibility of contentment and peace in a time of constant optimization and lifestyle marketing. The works also take up the mediated space of technology as both a regular disruptor, and mediator of one's relationships to self and others.

Almost all of the works include a figure. It could be an anonymous model or a close friend, but in either case these figures and their rendering take up the physical and psychological space of effort. Chan draws comparison between the effort in the figures' postures and other physical aspects of painting and representation, employing sketching, porous washes of color, layering over mistakes and over time. She emphasizes through process the need for experimentation, improvisation, and feeling out one's capacities.

DUNES
CONTACT BORU@DUNES.FYI
WEB DUNES.FYI
ADDRESS 251 CONGRESS ST. PORTLAND, ME 04101

LETTUCE MAKES YOU TIRED

Jamie Chan

SEPT 30–NOV 30, 2022

Opening reception Friday September 30th 5–7pm

Death of the Small Self, 2020, watercolor, acrylic, pencil and
oil on canvas, 44" x 40"

Vacation Days Request, 2022, watercolor and colored pencil
on linen, 16" x 20"

Offering by Greyson, 2022, acrylic, watercolor and charcoal on unprimed linen, 44" x 40"

Books on Table

Baseball folder, 2019, xerox copies, watercolor on canvas, binders board, 7"
x 4.75"

Cavafy on Painting (Agnes b.), 2017, xerox copies, watercolor on paper,
binders board, bookcloth, 8.75" x 5.75"

Untitled (Osservanza Master), 2018, acrylic, oil, watercolor on paper, binders board, linen, 9" x 6.25"

Untitled (Proserpina), 2015, xerox copies, binders board, bookcloth, 9" x 6"

Tired Emoji Reflection, 2022, watercolor and pencil on paper, 9" x 11" (framed)

Lettuce Makes You Tired, 2022, gouache, acrylic, and oil on linen, 40" x 50"

Body Scan, 2021,
watercolor, acrylic, charcoal on unprimed linen, 36" x 50"

Foodtown, 2018,
oil on canvas, 44" x 39"

Office Cerberus, 2018,
watercolor and acrylic on canvas,
72" x 42"

Mom's Car, 2022,
watercolor and acrylic on unprimed
linen, 38" x 48"

Vacation Days Request, 2022,
watercolor on paper, 6.25" x 9" (framed)