

LAURENZ

We are delighted to announce Florian Hofer's short residency at Laurenz. Over the course of two weeks, Florian will be working on-site, using Laurenz's new spaces as a studio. In the coming days, the artist will define the framework within which he will share his work with the public.

With this new experimental format, we want to invite artists to help us get to know our new environment. By focusing on the artistic process rather than the presentation of finished works, we aim to create more space for the development of new practices and to explore the exhibition space as a site of production.
