Halsey McKay Gallery is pleased to present Raymie Iadevaia's third solo exhibition with the gallery.

Meandering the dark blue, flickering days, ominous and tranquil, gently drifting havoc. Nights are brightest when the heat lingers. Tempestuous clouds, the tea simmers, a year of harbingers, birds a chorus of the future. These summer nights, changing tides and windswept horizons provide a backdrop for suspended animation. The glint of failed architecture still provides shelter. While long howls from another day trace a pattern in the wings of flowers floating in golden sunbeams, fluttering and transfixed.
