

DOMINIQUE KNOWLES-ODE TO TAZZ

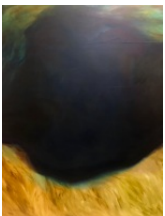

Dominique Knowles
*The monument will be fragile for some time
Will you find an empty grave at the end of eternity
There will be flowers*

*Though she was cremated
May we cover her ashes with flowers
The lid of the vessel that seemingly holds the body
Her spirit flows like a river
I'm grasping the absurdity of real currents slipping*

*I should try to press on your skin and breathe into you as much as I can
To love you is to make a lasting memory of my embrace in your body
Regardless if I am in disbelief
Devotion is to pull the weight of your entire life onto me
A surrogate may not hold you
I'll keep going until my blood is in your heart
