

I show a lot of photos of sign posts without signs.

I have been taking these for 8 years.

As this is popular party content, not controversial or conscious content, I weave some pedagogical pushes into this exhibition:

In the middle I do props of driving school cars, pretending to go from A to B.

Because there are no signs on the posts, they have trouble finding their way.

In addition to this, all of the lights will go first green, then amber, then red.
