

Jason Dodge is a sculptor who draws objects from everyday life to explore their narrative potential. What we have done. is the artist's first comprehensive exhibition in North America and the premiere of two major works that dominate the Henry's Stroum Gallery: The piece after which the show is titled, What we have done. and The living in the southern most part of the gallery, among other works. A publication was produced in conjunction with this exhibition.

(This document was automatically generated by Contemporary Art Library.)