

On red I'll show you Damenstiftskirche

I'm still busy with what Rachel likes.

So I'll stay at home
and won't show you
milk and honey.

I was taught at Städelschule
you can invite a copycat into your untidy studio
when you buy
its preferred material before to stir it underneath.

This will probably make its head very busy.

This allows me to tell my neighbour
again:

The driving school car is still playing:
going from A to B
using real stuff.

They are waiting at the traffic lights.
They don't like waiting because they are already able to do it.

I go in front of them
and show them Damenstiftskirche:
This church's ceiling was painted in colour but after destruction
restored in black and white because only b/w photos were available.

As they weren't at ease
I didn't get any Easy Jet flights for.
