Braunschweig, February 27, 2025

The Kunstverein Braunschweig cordially invites you to a press tour of the upcoming spring exhibitions on Thursday, March 13, 2025, at 11 am.

KETUTA ALEXI-MESKHISHVILI
there, but not

With there, but not, KETUTA ALEXI-MESKHISHVILI (*1979 in Tbilisi, lives and works in Berlin) creates an exhibition specifically conceived for Kunstverein Braunschweig. She integrates everyday objects that reference both classical still lifes and her Georgian heritage. Her photographic practice is characterized by experimental collage techniques, where she manipulates found and original images—through scratching, cropping, or adding handmade marks. She employs both analog and digital reproduction techniques to continually explore the boundaries of photography. For there, but not, the artist engages with the classical architecture of Villa Salve Hospes and alters the traditional relationship between art and exhibition space, with her works not merely framed by the architecture but actively shaping its perception.

Curator: Cathrin Mayer

DORIS GUO
Bent at the Window

The artistic practice of DORIS GUO (*1992 in San Francisco, lives and works in Oslo), spanning a variety of media, is based on capturing moods and precise observations, distilled into multi-layered works and atmospheres. Her materials often consist of used, everyday objects, brought into relation through Guo's sensitive combinations. For her first institutional solo exhibition Bent at the Window at Kunstverein Braunschweig, Guo develops new works and extends existing ones in dialogue with the exhibition space: among them, self-built projectors that cast static images onto the walls, as well as a new series of sculptures that further deepen Guo's interest in translating objects into alternative material and mental states.

Curator: Junia Thiede

Cinema
ARI BENJAMIN MEYERS
Marshall Allen, 99, Astronaut

ARI BENJAMIN MEYERS (*1972 in Long Island, New York, lives and works in Berlin) presents his latest film, Marshall Allen, 99, Astronaut, in the newly opened cinema at the Remise. The film is dedicated to the 100-year-old saxophonist Marshall Allen, leader of the Sun Ra Arkestra. Meyers explores how Allen responds to two original compositions he created for him. Through music, Allen engages in an intimate conversation about spontaneity, collaboration, and the challenges of rehearsing. The film weaves a musical and visual narrative that honors Allen's life and Sun Ra's visionary art.

Curators: Cathrin Mayer, Junia Thiede
