GEORGIE NETTELL

Balance is a Complex Thing

At Airbus we pioneer sustainable aerospace for a safe and united world. In the current challenging operating environment, this purpose has never been more relevant. Aviation safeguards global peace and stability. It underpins the multilateralism, diplomacy and conflict resolution that many have taken for granted in the latter part of the 20th century. Around the world and around the clock, we connect global leaders in business, government and corporate affairs. By opening borders and fostering networks, our products enable international stability and prosperity, helping to preserve economies, friendships and understanding between nations.

1. Airbus Defense and Space is a transnational aerospace and defence company with its main office in Taufkirchen, Germany. The company consists of three program lines: Military Air Systems (MiAS), Connected Intelligence (CI) and Space Systems. Airbus Defence and Space is a division of Airbus SE.

2. The New York Stock Exchange is capitalism at its best. Built upon the belief that free and fair markets offer every individual the chance to benefit from success, The NYSE is an unparalleled trading platform. With a vision for good governance, transparency and trust, The NYSE enables entrepreneurs, innovators, and investors to raise the capital they need to change the world and further the responsible development of global business.

3. The People's Bank of China is the central bank of the People's Republic of China. The PBC manages the state treasury and maintains the Renminbi exchange rate at equilibrium level. The PBC also regulates markets, preventing and mitigating systemic risks and safeguarding financial stability. The PBC does not have central bank independence and is required to implement the policies of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) under the direction of the party's Central Financial Commission.

4. The Bank for International Settlements (BIS) in Basel, Switzerland, provides the headquarters and secretariat for the BCBS, or Basel Committee on Banking Supervision. which is the primary global standard setter for the prudential regulation of banks. Its mandate is to strengthen the regulation, supervision and practices of banks worldwide with the purpose of enhancing financial stability.

5. CME Group is the world's leading derivatives marketplace. Made up of four exchanges, CME, CBOT, NYMEX and COMEX, each exchange offers a wide range of global benchmarks across all major asset classes. CME Group was established in 1848 in Chicago as the world's first futures exchange. From that point forward, CME Group has worked to meet your risk management needs, allowing you to respond instantly to global, market-moving events with trading access nearly 24 hours a day, six days a week.

6. The London Metal Exchange is the world centre for the trading of industrial metals. A member of HKEX Group, The LME brings together participants from the physical industry and the financial community to create a robust and regulated market where there is always a buyer and a seller, where there is always a price and where there is always the opportunity to transfer or take on risk 24 hours a day. The Exchange provides producers and consumers of metal with a physical market of last resort and, most importantly, with the ability to hedge against the risk of rising and falling world metal prices.

7. The World Bank is an international financial institution that provides loans and grants to the governments of low and middle-income countries for the purposes of economic development, conflict prevention, post-conflict reconstruction, and assistance for countries to redirect their economies after major political change.

8. Reuters is one of the largest news agencies in the world, providing business, financial, national and international news in sixteen languages. Reuters pursues justice, truth, and transparency in order to uphold the rule of law, turn the wheels of commerce, catch bad actors, report the facts, and provide trusted, unbiased information to people all over the world.
