

Before the demonstration could begin, the apparatus in the theatre began to tap out a message in Morse code. To the untrained ear, it sounded just a rhythmic ticking noise. But Marconi decoded it, he realized something had crossed into the wireless frequency spelling out one word, over and over again:

“RATS”

“RATS”

“RATS”

(This document was automatically generated by Contemporary Art Library.)