This exhibition is Saeka Enokura's first solo show at XYZ.

While formally presented as a solo exhibition, it also involves a collaborative element with the vintage bookshop Oshiage.

Oshiage has curated a selection of books that reference and interpret Enokura's work through its own unique perspective. These books are available for visitors to read within the exhibition space.

With the widespread use of social media in recent years, the act of taking selfies has become a major tool for self-expression and communication. Various applications have further propelled the evolution of selfies, enabling us to effortlessly erase what is present or fabricate what does not exist, thus numbing our senses and editing our perceptions into stereotypes. Through this body of work, I may be attempting to challenge and resist such values.
