

Green Go Home – Master list of images, last updated 9/6/17
(Images used for reference only; images may be edited before printing)

2001: A Space Odyssey, an epic science-fiction narrative novel written by Arthur C. Clarke concurrently with the development of the film version produced and directed by Stanley Kubrick.

Barbarella a 1968 cult science fiction film directed by Roger Vadim based on the French comic Barbarella created by Jean-Claude Forest.

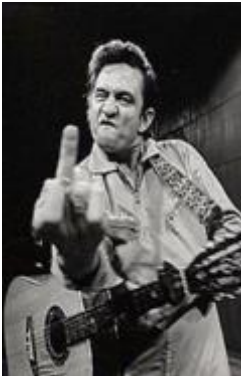

Brigitte Anne-Marie Bardot (b. 1934, Paris, France) is a French actress, singer, dancer and fashion model, who later became an animal rights activist.

Louise Bourgeois (b. 1911-2010, Paris) was a French-American artist whose work in large-scale sculpture, installation, painting and printmaking spanned most of the twentieth century.

David Bowie (David Robert Jones, b. 1947 – 2016, Brixton, London), English singer, songwriter and actor.

Johnny Cash (born John R. Cash, 1932-2003, Arkansas, U.S.A.) was a singer-songwriter, guitarist, actor and author.

Naked Women from Korova Milk Bar appearing in the novel by Anthony Burgess (1962) and film directed by Stanley Kubrick (1971), A Clockwork Orange

A Band Called Death is a 2012 American documentary film about the 1970s rock band, Death, and their newfound popularity decades after the group recorded their music. Directed by Mark Christopher Covino and Jeff Howlett.

Thích Quảng Đức (Thích Quang Duc, b. 1897-1963, Hội Khánh, French Indochina) was a Vietnamese Mahayana Buddhist monk who immolated himself to death before a large crowd of horrified people at a major intersection in downtown Saigon on June 11, 1963 to protest the persecution of Buddhists by the authoritarian South Vietnamese government led by Ngô Đình Diệm.

Henri-Robert-Marcel Duchamp (b. 1887-1968, Blainville-Crevon, France) was a French painter, sculptor and writer, active also in the USA. From his early experiments with Cubism to his association with Dada and Surrealism, his work is not only of historical importance, but his conception of the ready-made, of presenting objects themselves as art, decisively altered our understanding of what art should be.

R. Buckminster Fuller (b. 1895-1983, Milton, Massachusetts) was a renowned 20th century inventor, pioneer global thinker and visionary who dedicated his life to “making the world work for all humanity.”

Yuri Alekseyevich Gargarin (b. 1934-1968, Klushino, Russian SFSR, Soviet Union), first human in space.

Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi (b. 1869-1948, now Gujarat, India) was the leader of the Indian independence movement against British rule.

Debbie Ann Harry (born Angela Tremble, July 1, 1945, Miami, Florida) is an American singer-songwriter and actress best known as the lead singer of the band, Blondie.

Eva Hesse

Theodore John Kaczynski (b. 1942, Chicago, Illinois), also known as the Unabomber, is an American mathematician, anarchist and domestic terrorist.

Frida Kahlo

Alberto Rojas Lesmes Kapax

Bruce Lee

LeeLoo

John Lennon

Masked Ladies

Ana Mendieta

Pablo Picasso

Planet of the Apes

Iggy Pop

Prince

Pussyriot

Manuel Ramos Otero (1948 – 1990, Manatí, Puerto Rico) is widely considered the most important openly gay twentieth-century Puerto Rican writer whose work was often controversial due to its sexual and political content.

Rodriguez (sugar man)

Edward Snowden

Silver Surfer

Alan Turing