Press release:

There are transitions that do not follow familiar directions or time, but occur between layers, surfaces, and intuitions.

Tason-kulkija is composed of paintings and sculptural elements that move within these in-between spaces. The works observe the connections through which we move between different planes, detaching and returning, often without noticing.

A fictional perspective runs through the working process. An idea of how the world might appear and feel through the experience of a character from a fantasy world.

Reality is layered and in flux – shaped by a multiplicity of perspectives.
