solo exhibition by Anna Irina Moser

EN The exhibition zeitkapsel, presented by the artist Anna Irina Moser, takes place following a residency at the espace annexe, during which she conceptualized and produced the work on display.

The artist explains that "time passes if we do not capture it," which simply reflects the intention of this work. Her connection to the city of Biel, and in particular to the Terrain Gurzelen, led her to reflect on the relationships of time and the process of materializing a place, generated by the site's limited lifespan – considering a real estate project in its place.

Her work aims to fix the moments experienced while exploring the site, symbolically imagined as fingerprints tracing corners, surfaces, and surrounding textures. She seeks to narrate her own interpretation of Terrain Gurzelen, first by collecting these traces and then transforming them into abstract images, echoing her practice of charcoal drawing.

The components – including supports made of tissue paper – were selected in correlation with the artistic intentions of the project: they highlight the delicate and sensitive process she values in capturing fragments of the site and convey a certain fragility through their characteristics.

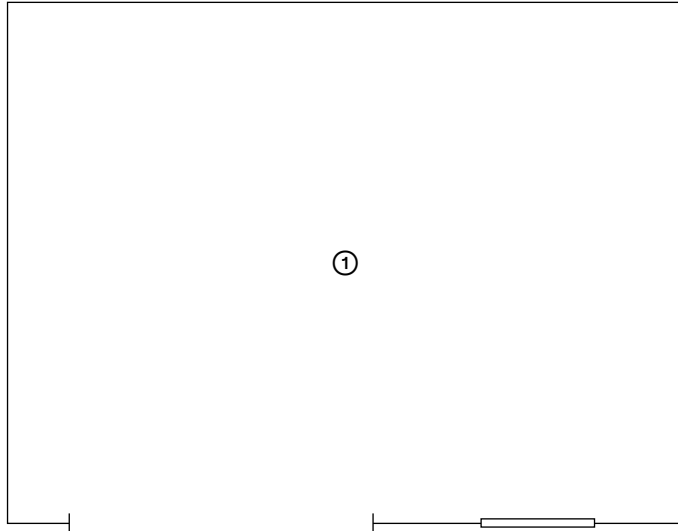

The installation aims to evoke the vastness of the paths we can take, the countless traces of our explorations, which intertwine and recombine in our memories. These imprints of the site are catalogued and listed in the title of the installation as a glossary of the work and as the vocabulary of her time capsule.
